DB Jimmy Moreland

On being drafted by the Redskins:

"My overall thought is I'm just glad to be here. It's been a long process. I'm just happy for this moment, man. My family, they're proud of me. I'm just ready to go to work that's all."

On what he had to prove in the draft process coming from a smaller school:

"I had to prove what I'm worth. I had to fight for every step, every step I had to take. I had a little incident in my early college career. I'm just ready to go now. They look at big school different than small schools. I'm 5'9 and a great corner in the NFL. Now, I just have to show and prove that."

On his incident in college and what he told teams when asked about it:

"I just told them immaturity. The incident, I had a petty larceny charge on me after my freshman year and that matured me and showed me my life lesson. It showed me a different way of being around people and watching people and my surroundings. I'm just good overall and I'm ready for this."

On what made him successful:

"I'm a dog. I'm just a dog, you know. Just coming from where I came from in Florida and the type of player I am, I'm just a ball-hawk player."

On his special teams experience:

"Oh, my special teams experience? I have over like six blocked kicks in college and over seven blocked kicks in high school. So, it's been good."
