Head Coach Jay Gruden

On Injury Report:

"Did not participate were [TE Jordan] Reed, [C Chase] Roullier and [G Brandon] Scherff. Limited was [WR] Terry McLaurin and full was everybody else."

On how QB Case Keenum looked in practice:

"He did fine. He took the reps and did a good job."

On if Keenum will start on Sunday:

"That's the plan right now. Unless he has a setback right now. [QB] Dwayne [Haskins] got to get some rep in there and [QB] Colt McCoy got a few with the scout team. It was good to see them all work."

On if Haskins got reps with the first team:

"Oh yeah, yeah."

On if WR Terry McLaurin was on the injury report yesterday:

"No. He had a little hamstring issue today."

On if McLaurin's injury is serious:

"I sure hope not."

On how McCoy looked out at practice:

He did O.K. I think it's going to be a few days or maybe weeks before he gets back in the flow here with his timing, his feet, fundamentals in the pocket. He's missed a lot of time. It's good to get him back out there and watch him zip it around and move around. I think he felt O.K. it's just a matter of getting comfortable with his feet and his legs.

On Haskins progress from preseason up until now:

"I feel pretty good. We'd have a plan for him if he did go in without a doubt. As we would with anybody, but he did fine. I think the most important thing for him is to make sure you continue to study protections and all that stuff, so you can protect yourself with all the blitz looks that teams give you on third down especially. Other than that, he's done a nice job."

On if Haskins playing changes the type of offense that the team would run:

"Not really, not really. It might not be as extravagant but it never really is that extravagant anyway, it's just football – plays. It's about execution anyways. I think we'll give him some things that he's comfortable with. That's the biggest thing is that he's comfortable with the plays we give him. [He] can spit them out and then execute."

On if McCoy will be inactive against the Giants:

"Unless we decided to dress three. We will see. Yeah, that's probably the likely scenario. Unless we have a setback, or something happens."

On who would play right guard if both Roullier and Scherff can't play on Sunday:

"You guys love these if questions, don't ya? Well, we have [C Tony] Bergstrom at center, Bergstrom can play right guard as well. We could dress [C] Wes [Martin]. So we have a lot of different options here. A lot of versatility on our offensive line, by-golly."

On if Haskins getting reps with the first team was because of Keenum's injury:

"No, he's gotten reps before too. As I said the first time, it's not the first time he's ever gotten them. You've just got to have your backup quarterback prepared. We did the same thing with our backup last year when [QB] Colt [McCoy] was at quarterback. We tried to him a few with the ones from time-to-time. It's no different with any team I would think."
