

WASHINGTON COMMANDERS 2022 NFL DRAFT PARTY ON THURSDAY NIGHT APRIL 28TH MEDIA OPPORTUNITIES

WHAT: The Washington Commanders will host a draft party next Thursday April 28th during the first round of the 2022 NFL Draft, which is the team's first major fan event to kick off the official 2022 NFL season and inaugural season as the Washington Commanders.

The draft event will feature field games and activities including a QB challenge, field goal kicks, a Fuel Up to Play 60 obstacle course, corn hole, arts & crafts, meet and greets and photo opportunities with current players and Washington Alumni, a tour of the locker room with the Lombardi trophies and more.

The draft broadcast stream from Las Vegas will be shown live at 8:00 p.m. on the end zone video boards and will feature the first three picks of the draft and the Commanders' draft pick. Additionally, picks 4-10 will be shown on the end zone video boards without audio, as well as unique team draft videos and content.

Additional details can be found in the press release and blog post

WHO: Current players: Jonathan Allen, Kendall Fuller, Logan Thomas
Washington Alumni: Ken Harvey, Josh Morgan, Brian Mitchell, Niles Paul, Doug Williams

WHEN: Thursday, April 28th 6:00 PM-Through the Commanders First Round Pick (estimated to occur at 10 PM. EST)

WHERE: FedExField
(1600 FedEx Way, Greater Landover, MD)
Please park in parking lots B1 or B2 and enter through the South Field Tunnel

CONTACT: Note all media interested in covering the event must request a credential by EOD Tuesday 4.26. Please email publicrelations@commanders.com to request a credential.